ERICSA HISTORY

- ERICSA's roots go back to 1947 when the State of New York decided to address the problem of parents evading child support enforcement by moving away from the state that issued the support order.
- In 1964 the initial rules of the "Northeastern Regional Conference on URESA" were approved to support a national effort to fully implement URESA.
- In 1971 that membership adopted a resolution establishing "The Eastern Regional Conference on URESA" to include all states and territories east of the Mississippi River and the District of Columbia.
- The bylaws were amended in May 1987 to change the name to "Eastern Regional Interstate Child Support Association" and expand member states to those bordering on and east of Mississippi River and the state of Texas.
- ERICSA has worked throughout its history to develop training and support policy to ensure that children get financial support from both parents.
- ERICSA is proud to have been a key player in every major child support reform since 1975 and the creation of the federal state child support program
- Since 1964, ERICSA has been committed to providing high quality training to child support professionals east of the Mississippi River. That commitment has not waivered, even as our membership has extended beyond those initial boundaries to all states and tribal nations.
